Let’s just say the Chinese do overtake America at this year’s Olympics in the overall medal standings for the first time in Olympic history would that have a devastating impact on our psyche? or would we just say oh well who cares about the Olympics anyway?

On the one hand I think a lot of people would probably lean toward the latter but I just can’t imagine the majority of Americans taking a lost like that to China, it’s one thing when it comes to overtaking us as the leading producers of white cotton T-shirts but to beat us at the Olympics..that would be like taking away our turkeys at thanksgiving..so, I can’t imagine us taking that lying down..can you?

But seriously, the Chinese are hell bent on taking that the top spot and they have a pretty good chance according to some observers..but I never bet against the US..NEVER.. no matter how good the opposition.

I know that all of us watching the Olympics are probably thinking what the heck are we going to do if the Chinese beat us in the number of medals, but I don’t know if the athletes at the Olympics right now are paying as much attention to the medal standings as we are. They’re just thinking about doing their best in their events.
I’m sure if at the end it turns out that China were to beat us in the number of medals that are won then the athletes will go home with crazy determination to better themselves.
I never bet against the US either.

I think your little tirade is filled with unwanted animosity. On a usual occasion, I would ignore stuff like this, but today I can not refrain from backlashing your load of crap. China’s Olympic Team is very industrious and unified. Of course they want to win. The Olympics is being held in their homeland. Did you not see their victory in Team Gymnastics? It was so emotional and meaningful. I was tearing up! I think any team deserves a top spot in the medal rankings, if they put one hundred percent effort and a lot of heart into the competition, don’t you? So stop worrying about whether or not your precious United States loses to another country because: One, you’re disrespecting the country that is hosting the damn Olympics, and Two, you’re missing the whole point of the Olympics.

[which leaves us wondering what the whole point of the olympics is.. we missed it too]